

Dorian Karp, Senior Advocacy and Policy Manager, Jewish Women International

Dorian Karp serves as the Senior Advocacy and Policy Manager at Jewish Women International, a leading organization working to end gender-based violence, gun violence, and gender inequality. In this position she serves to promote policies that support and empower women and girls through coalition building, Hill advocacy, and weekly communication to the field. She is a co-chair of Faiths United to Prevent Gun Violence, convener of the Interfaith Coalition Against Domestic and Sexual Violence, co-chair of the National Task Force to End Sexual and Domestic Violence’s Outreach Committee, and active participant in many other areas of intersectional public policy.

Before moving to D.C., she spent nearly a decade working in state government, the nonprofit sector, and political campaigns. Dorian received her Masters in Public Administration from the University of South Florida in 2016. Dorian holds a BA from Barnard College at Columbia University.
